

A RENAISSANCE FESTIVAL COMEDY EXPERIENCE

SHH IT'S A SHOW

FEATURING OLDE BLUE. THE FINEST PRIVY ON THE SEVEN SEAS

Captain Shh-nel claims the finest privy on the seven seas belongs to her. Stu of the Loo, a sarcastic sewer rat, reluctant roommate, and Duke of the highest order, whom disagrees. Together (against his better judgment), they'll take you on a 30-minute romp of comedy magic, sideshow spectacle, and bathroom puns so good they hurt, all set in and around Olde Blue, the most beloved outhouse at your faire. Feats of questionable danger. Audience chaos. And a finale involving a plunger that Stu absolutely did not see coming.

Striving for number one is overrated; go for #2.

WHY POOP ALONE WHEN YOU CAN POOP WITH A FRIEND?

SHH IT'S A SHOW

Meet Captain Shh-nel, a bubbly pirate, proud outhouse owner, and self-proclaimed captain of the finest privy to ever sail the seven seas. Meet Stu of the Loo a sarcastic sewer rat, reluctant roommate, and long-suffering tenant of whatever is directly beneath her. You should also know that Stu is not just any sewer rat. He is royalty. A Duke of the highest order. A really big Duke. He did not ask to live beneath a pirate's privy, and he would like that noted for the record.

Together, they'd like to introduce you to Olde Blue. She's not just a privy. She's a vessel.

Once the introductions are out of the way, Nel and Stu do what any reasonable pirate and her sewer rat would do — they take the plunge. Literally and figuratively. What follows is 30 minutes of side-splitting comedy magic, sideshow spectacle, and the kind of gleeful, pun-soaked chaos that leaves audiences laughing and quietly asking themselves, "...but why does she have a plunger?"

Along the way, Nel and Stu put their skills — and their commitment to their craft — on full display. Walking on bottles. Balancing stool samples. Feats of questionable danger performed with absolute, unearned confidence. Are these acts impressive? Debatable. Are they committed? Undeniably. Stu has doubts. Nel has a plunger. The audience has no idea what's coming next.

And that plunger? By the time the finale arrives, Stu finds out exactly what Nel means when she says: The Plunger of Death. 30 minutes of fast-paced bathroom comedy that will leave your faire guests in stitches and your grounds smelling faintly of merriment. Striving to be number one is boring. Go for #2.
